

Jeppesen Ops Advisor

Information revealed for improved operational situational awareness

With Ops Advisor from Jeppesen you'll experience a more connected view of your operation. It provides the information you need to be aware of schedule changes, analyze down-line impacts and make the best, most informed decisions possible to help keep your operations running smoothly and efficiently. It also offers the ability to share real-time information across your entire organization, so you can be confident the right information reaches the right person at the right time.

With more than 40 million flights worldwide every year, disruption is bound to happen. It can occur due to weather, technology outages or personnel issues. The key is getting your operation back on track as quickly as possible.

Addressing disruption as it happens – or even before it occurs – leads to faster response time and the opportunity to create additional solutions. To aid in your decision making, Ops Advisor provides a single, unified display of what's taking place in your operation. That means you spend less time gathering information and more time making faster, better decisions. Because Ops Advisor monitors for a variety of disruptions, you gain visibility into potential down-line impacts.

Ops Advisor allows you the flexibility to prioritize events based on what's happening that day or even that hour. And with its web-based presence, your teams can have the information they need, regardless of where they are.
