

JEPPESEN SITE KEYS EXPLAINED

- ✔ Jeppesen site keys are associated with Jeppesen electronic chart products
- ✔ Jeppesen site keys allow a certain number of applications to access an electronic charting service
- ✔ The Jeppesen site key numerical value represents the number of apps that can access the charting subscription
- ✔ A 16 character serial number is associated with a charting subscription, while site keys are eight characters and are only generated when the chart subscription is activated within an app
- ✔ Site keys can easily be deactivated if customers ever need to associate subscriptions with different apps and devices
- ✔ Jeppesen site keys do not apply to avionics devices specifically, meaning the avionics do not use up one of the allotted site keys. Therefore the ability to display charts on the avionics is unrelated to site keys. However, avionics electronic chart services do include site keys so the customer can apply the same charting coverage to their favorite app, including ForeFlight Mobile, Jeppesen Mobile FliteDeck, Garmin Pilot, Avidyne IFD100 and more.
- ✔ Popular site key configurations include one or four apps depending on what electronic charting service options and region(s) are selected. This also may include bundles, such as Jeppesen PilotPak for Garmin avionics.
- ✔ Jeppesen PilotPak for Garmin comes in either one site key or four site key options for the Americas and four site key options for rest of the world
 - Can be used on any supported device/app (ForeFlight Mobile, Garmin Pilot, Mobile FliteDeck)
- ✔ Avidyne bundles will vary
 - Jeppesen Services Suite Plus Bundle – four site keys
 - Jeppesen Services Suite Bundle – two site keys, any available device – Americas, USA and Europe only
 - Aircraft Bundle – one site key, IFD100 device only
 - Nav Single/Dual + Charts Bundles – one site key, IFD100 device only
- ✔ Customers can manage their site keys on myJeppesen.com and in some cases direct from the application using the site key, such as ForeFlight Mobile
- ✔ Support links

- ✔ Jeppesen electronic chart subscriptions purchased through ForeFlight do not use Jeppesen site keys. Instead, ForeFlight uses their own entitlement method. For individuals, ForeFlight allows two iPads and one iPhone to view Jeppesen charts.
- ✔ If a customer purchases electronic charts from a Jeppesen account to view on ForeFlight Mobile and separately purchases Jeppesen charts through a ForeFlight account, then the application can only use one source or the other. They cannot be combined.
