

Focus on your mission. Leave the planning to us.

Your mission's success is only as good as its plan.

Every military mission requires a unique level of flight planning and trip logistics. It requires intimate knowledge of regulatory compliances, international and domestic requirements, diplomatic clearances, and complex routing environments.

With the high rate of turnover in military aviation operations, there is a continuity challenge in retaining well-trained planners, and a burden on others to constantly train and re-train new staff.

Eliminate the continuity challenge with Easy Mission Planning and Support powered by ForeFlight Dispatch.

You get access to the Jeppesen mission support team with the knowledge, experience, and credentials to manage your global mission planning, dispatch, and support for all phases of flight. We become an extension of your team and build the consistency needed for efficient, safe, and flawless operations.

Our flight services are customized to your unique operation. Available 24/7/365, we fill operational gaps, letting you focus on the mission. You chose the right level of service for all or part of your mission needs. Leverage our services as much or as little as you need to create a one-stop-shop for end-to-end planning.

Improve Operations and Mitigate Risk

Rely on experienced mission and flight planning experts to ensure your pilots have access to the best route and information required to safely complete the mission. We can adjust to any environment or scenario change, offering alternative options to ensure mission success.

Enhance mission focus and ease staff burden

Let your pilots and team members focus on the mission instead of managing planning tasks and other disruptions. Our team of experts provide a scalable service for continuous mission planning, dispatch, and diplomatic clearance support, reducing the time it takes to train new staff.

Leverage advanced technology and expertise

We use the most advanced flight technology available, including ForeFlight Dispatch. You get secure access through a custom web portal to view flight mission and status, enable communications with teams, make rapid changes based on current data, and share information via email and file uploads and downloads.
