

AEG Fuels powered by Jeppesen, a Boeing Company.

AEG Fuels, an aviation fuel and services provider, has formally established a strategic alliance with Jeppesen, A Boeing company, to provide international trip planning and related services. By establishing a one-source solution that offers competitive pricing and personalized trip support services.

By combining Jeppesen's 40+ years of international trip planning experience with AEG fuel expertise, we are able provide customers with resources, a digital platform, and a vendor network, creating a global comprehensive fuel and flight support offering for commercial, government and business aviation operators. Together, AEG with Jeppesen's tools, now deliver the entire flight experience through one seamless digital ecosystem with a keen focus on the customer experience.

Through this partnership, AEG and Jeppesen are prepared to serve all segments of the aviation industry, from the largest fractional operators to corporate flight departments, charter operators, airlines, aircraft management companies, heads of state, militaries, OEMs and government agencies. The combined capabilities will provide single supplier convenience for fuel and ground handling services, team members with extensive regulatory and regional experience, proven and trusted systems and processes and timely, accurate and transparent estimates and invoicing.

AEG and Jeppesen currently provide services to over 500 operators from offices in Houston, Texas , San Jose, California, Englewood, Colorado and Miami, Florida USA, Crawley UK, Gdansk Poland, and Beijing China. We can handle any aircraft to any destination.

Contracts will be agreed through AEG in the name of Associated Energy Group, LLC. Requests will come via the Jeppesen TPS system using Jeppesen email addresses, primarily fss@jeppesen.com.
